

World Leprosy Day

30th January, 2023

World Leprosy Day (WLD) is celebrated on the last Sunday of January. It is observed in India on 30th of January every year. To make the children aware about this day, the junior school organized a talk for the children. The class teachers briefed the children about Leprosy and raised awareness about it. . It was conveyed to the children that it is a chronic infectious disease caused by a type of bacteria, mycobacterium leprae and it is curable with multi-drug therapy (MDT). The students of classes III, IV & V also participated in the 'Poster Making' activity on the given topic.
